DONES & SNYDER.

TO MY CUSTOMERS, IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE IN CONSEQUENCE OF THE late fire on the latinitant, by which my store-house and a greater part of my stock was curned, I was compelled to seek another location. I therefore beg leave to inform my friends and customers that I am now ready to serve them, as heretofore, at my new location, in Bustard's Building, Not49, near the corner of Kourth and Market, north side. My stock of ladles' and gents' Shoes and Boots, for fall and winter west, will be complete in a very few days. I shall still endeavor to ment the patronage in my new location heretofore so generously bestowed by the citizens of Louisville and surrounding country.

Vegetable Pulmonic Strup, FOR THE CURE OF COUGHS AND COLDS

- OCTOBER 10, 1856

The brief announcement by telegraph of the atal termination of the duel fought between one of the editors of the Charleston, (S. C.,) Mercury, and Mr. Elward McGrath does not sufficiently satisfy the public mind. We therefore give the rticle which called forth the challenge, and fur-ish also the Mercary's appoundement of the death of one of its editors: Mr. W. R. Taber, editor of the Charleston leroury, was killed in a duel, a day or two ago, y Edward McGrath, brother of Hon. A. G. leGrath, United States District Judge, who is a Ancerain, United States District Juage, who is a candidate for the s at in Congress made vacant by Mr. Aiken's resignation. The Mercury bas lately published a series of articlessigned "A Nullider," addressed to Judga McGrath, which are supposed to be written by Ron. R. Earnwell Rhew, unale of Mr. Taber, enter or the Mercury.

Taber was a secessionist, in favor of South Carcillar quitting the Union at once. Judga McGrath and his brother are called to operationists, being and his brother are called co-operationists, being in favor of disunion if other States, go out with thom. To give an idea of the character of the Mercury's attacks upon Judge McGrath, we quote the following passage from the third communica-tion of "A Null der" which appeared in the Mer-tion of "A Null der" which appeared in the Mer-cury and provosed the duel:

"But what, sir, is the protext upon which you attempt to reconcile the mind of the community to the novelty of electing attended in first to repre-sent them in Congress? You say, "If I am a condidate, I should be myself bound at nee to take off my robe, and surronder my commission. Are your cladities to your cladities? Are not your friends zealous and active beyond degree? It you are not a condidate, what are you? What convenient middle ground is this which you seek convenient indule groun is the water you seek to occupy, where, manted in your 'ip, you can escape all the responsibilities a didate, while soliciting all the rewards. The Crisis.

There has been many a perilous contest in this country, when the political horison threatened a tempest of calamity; but the lowering clouds were dissipated in the end. It doesn't follow that there was no danger; but safety was secured, because the people had notice of it in time. The false ery of wolf, when there was none, was unheeded, becau e it had often been raised; but the wolf came at last. We have had too many warnings from whee statesmen of the past, not to mistrne any sound of alarm; and especially when the antecedents of the calamities they foretold are upon us. They pointed to the very causes now at work, and foretold, with sait forebodings, their effect Bat popular intelligence has hitzerto been suffi cient to weather the storm; and it is so yet. There are breakers aboud, it is true, but they are seen. The pilots and crew will carry the old ship past them; nor will shorun to close as the croakers imagine. The cli Democratic flag streams in the wind. The captains, pilots, and crew, will sweet past the danger, and langh at the crisis; and it will be seriously doubted, after it is over, whether hal been a crisis at all. After the fourth

e helm of state, and Breckinridge shall be presiding over the Senate, and Democrats shall have cleared the lower House of the Vandals that got assidental possession of it, we shall expect several ponderous columns from "Union," proving that all the stuff he published about disunion was bogus; that he wasn't afraid, and that nobody elso was i that it is still true that Fillmore would have done well, if he had gotten votes enough to make him President; but that he dldn't get them, and that sideration : it's no matter that he didn't. It is now as plain as full moonshine, at least, that the North are going to vote for Bushanan. Connectiont, the first of the old thirteen that has spoken, has made a fair promise. The old Keystone, next Tuesday, will respon . Indiana will answer with an emphatic pledge, that will make all factions shiver n their boots. croakers. The latter are of no account. They want now to set themselves np as Union saversdeeply concerned they about the Union! They stand throwing up their hands and rolling up their eyes in the most pitiable imbecility. They look at the combatants that have an object in the struggle, and wonder that somebody don't join them in the great business of creaking. They stand frightened at ghosts. They see the Popand the bloody "Inrriners," and don't appear to see what else on earth's the matter. Why just elect Fillmore, and we shall head the Pope and "fnrriners;" what more is needed?

They save the Union, forsooth; they would be run over by disunionists, rough shod. They haven's the conrage to do anything but croak. They can't even stick to their vices. They began a secret oath-bound fraternity, and felt proud of it; they now make It a merit that they have deserted such an organization. They swore terribly against Roman Catholics; but they have been wriggling and explaining what they meant, ever since it was exposed. They met and passed the twelfth plank, and gloried in the exploit; they got scared out of it shortly afterward. They pretended that the principle of the Kansas-Nebracka bill was right; but, ohl it would make such a fires, and they were so afraid of agitation ! They didn't dare to do right, lest somebody would agitate. Then they have gotten to denouncing the Kaneas-Nebracka bill as a great iniquity, but haven't the courage to undo the iniquity they pretend to believe was done. Now they run about creaking, afraid to propose anything, lest
